

Community Futures
Community Lore

Credits

The Community Futures, Community Lore website, Stepping Stone guides and companion resources originated from the work of the Intercultural Oral History Project, Community LORE, Youth in Focus, the UC Davis Center for Regional Change Putting Youth on the Map program and many, many community collaborators.

Many people were part of creating and compiling these materials. We are grateful to the staff, community partners, youth researchers and advocates who shaped this work and poured wisdom, time and heart into its evolution. We could never name you all or express the depth of our gratitude.

A few key people and organizations made possible this particular stage of activity – combing through archival materials, updating them and making them newly accessible as a web-based resource.

Project Directors: Nancy Erbstein, Brandon Louie and Kristen Zimmerman

Project Advisors: Jonathan London, May Lin, Paul Tabarez, Christopher Gomez Wong, Crisantema Gallardo, Jesús Guzmán, George Villa, Jasmine Leiva, Nancy Xiong and Darnel Degand

Graphic Design: Timothea Wang (Website), Emily Luong (Stepping Stone Guides), Chelsea Ann Jimenez

Website Design-Coding: Daniel Ritchie and Perry Rolland

Project Interns: Nancy LePage, Jordin Simons, Deedee Chao and Sarina Rodriguez

Copyeditor: Adriana Cruz

Photo Credits: Stepping Stone 8 Cover Photo: Bryan Patrick; desaturated from original with illustration added. Stepping Stone 9 Cover Photo: “FLYMarch015” by sierraromeo [sarah-ji]; licensed under CC BY-NC-SA 2.0; desaturated from original with illustration added.

This website was developed by a partnership between the Center for Regional Change and the School of Education at the University of California, Davis with generous funding from The California Endowment.

UC DAVIS

Center for Regional Change

UC DAVIS

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION